TRADE COURSE AT JEFFERSON HIGH PROVES POPULAR

Facts and figures have been often compiled in the past few years to establish the fact that education has a definite money value; so many years of grammar school so much average earning power; so many years of high school so much more earning power, etc., on through special schools and colleges. The fact of measured earning power closely correlating with additional schooling has been established.

In general this is interesting. In particular, just what does this mean in our own district, in our own schools?

This article will explain briefly what is being done in one of the four year courses offered in our high school. The four year trade course in automobile mechanics was chosen as the first trade course to be offered, and has proven popular.

Automobile mechanics prepare directly for entrance into the trade at the end of a four year course, when a boy is about 18 years old. The course compares to an apprenticeship in the trade, with the addition of general courses of more general value which fulfill the state requirements, and give the boy a full certificate of graduation from high school.

On an automobile are found most of the mechanical devices used in modern machinery, so that even if a boy does not continue in the trade he has a thorough foundation in mechanics.

The high school now has a roomy, well equipped auto shop with a competent teacher in charge. There are seven chassis on which beginners learn the fundamentals during the first year. These models include the different types of engine, transmission, springs, frame, etc. The course is systematically organized so that each boy performs each operation.

During the last three years of the course, the boys do commercial work on cars brought to the shop. They also learn soldering, welding, electricity and battery building.

In addition to three hours of shop work, the boys are given three hours instruction in mathematics, science, English, drawing, and even a course in bookkeeping in the Senior year.

The federal government is so well sold on this type of course that they pay to the district about a thousand dollars a year to carry on the work.

We are proud of the building which houses our high school pupils. Let us also be proud of the opportunities we are offering our young people to prepare themselves to be useful members of society.

REAL ESTATE MAN IN NEW QUARTERS

T. Sheehan, local real estate and insurance man, who for the past seventeen years has ben located at 131 Irvington street, has moved his office to 62 Templeton avenue, near Mission street, where he will be glad to see his friends and customers.

Mr. Sheehan is one of the best known residents of Daly City. He was the first city treasurer and served in that capacity for five years. He is now a deputy health officer of San Mateo county.

Mr. Sheehan reports having handled quite a number of real estate deals recently and anticipates that 1927 will be a record year in his line of business.

BUILDING PERMITS

City Clerk B. C. Ross reports the issuance of the following building permits:

J. Van Huesden, five rooms and garage, 342 Willits street.

Dave Campbell, plumbing shop, 14 Mission Circle.

Charles Anderson, alterations, 3390 San Jose avenue.

E. J. Cuneo, five rooms and garage, 234 Winchester street.

Homestead Realty Co., five rooms and garage, 427 Bellevue avenue; five rooms and garage, 468 Bellevue avenue; five rooms and garage, 464 Bellevue avenue.

B. Young, four rooms and garage, 36 Woodrow street; four rooms and garage 40 Woodrow street.

This represents about $32,000 more invested in Daly City, and in spite of the rainy weather, too

FAILS TO COLLECT AWARD

"It's one thing to be awarded compensation and another thing to collect it," says Mrs. Isabel Herrera, 107 Hillcrest Drive, Daly City, whose husband, Joseph Herrera, a painter, was injured when a scaffold collapsed. The state industrial accident commission awarded Herrera $18.52 a week, but Mrs. Herrera claims he has been unable to collect the money. Herrera was injured when painting a house for Michele Camillo.

Million Dollar Produce Market Planned to be Located at Colma

By CARL WORST

About 400 years ago Father Joliet predicted that Chicago would be the site of a city greater than Paris. The valiant padre explorer said: "This place where all the roads meet must be the site of a great city."

Now Colma is coming into its rightful heritage. Where the pioneers of peninsula development the best part of a century ago established themselves, we will soon see arising a mammoth series of units to house probably a hundred or more distributors and wholesalers of produce and other foodstuffs, and later assembling plants, manufacturer's agencies and distributing branches.

The new $1,000,000 wholesale produce terminal, to be built at Colma by Norton & Papale, will bring the San Francisco wholesale marts many miles closer to peninsula merchants and dealers. The new terminal will be a branch of the big downtown wholesale terminal markets on Front, Battery, Sacramento and Clay streets, and will be in Jefferson Park, fronting school street, between Junipero Serra boulevard and Mission street. Special spur track facilities will be provided.

Norton & Papale, local real estate men, announce the new wholesale terminal market will cater especially to merchants and dealers in peninsula towns, relieving congestion on market days at the downtown centers.

The new project, to cover 390,000 square feet of land, will be on School street, between Junipero Serra boulevard and Mission street, in Jefferson Park.

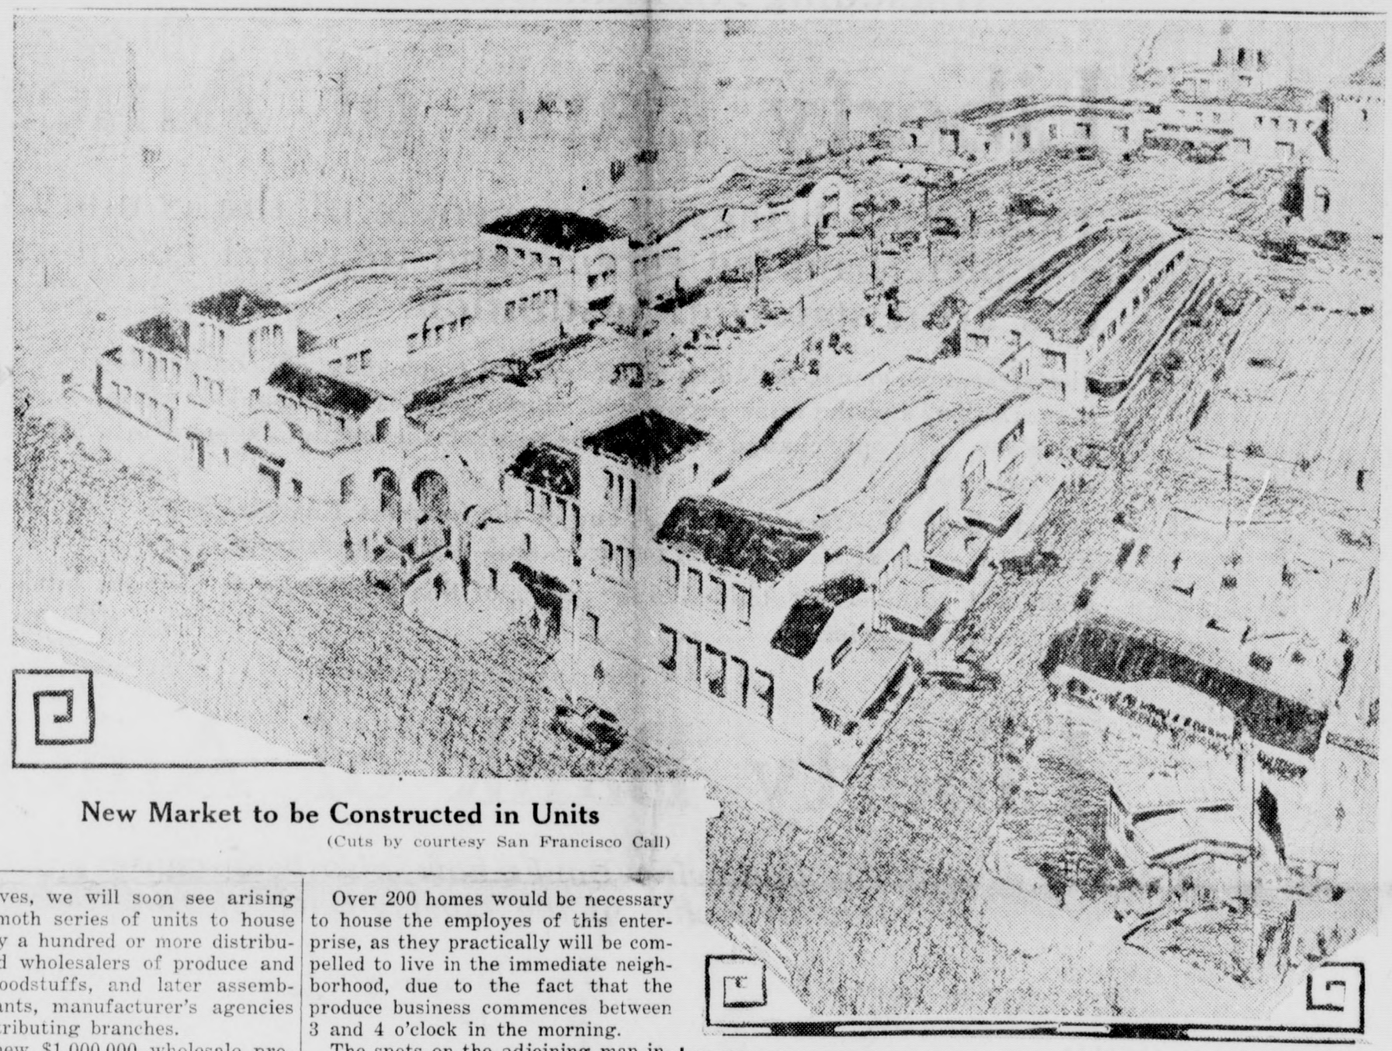
Over 200 homes would be necessary to house the employes of this enterprise, as they practically will be compelled to live in the immediate neighborhood, due to the fact that the produce business commences between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning.

The spots on the adjoining map indicate the buying communities which would partonize this new wholesale terminal. Mr. Papale, who is familiar with the conditions of the present market on Washington and Front streets, was the originator of the idea of establishing a market at this location.

Parking space occupying a central court 120 feet long will be provided and the building units so arranged that only one handling from the producer's auto or incoming trains will be necessary for transhipment either by railroad or direct to the retailer's automobile.

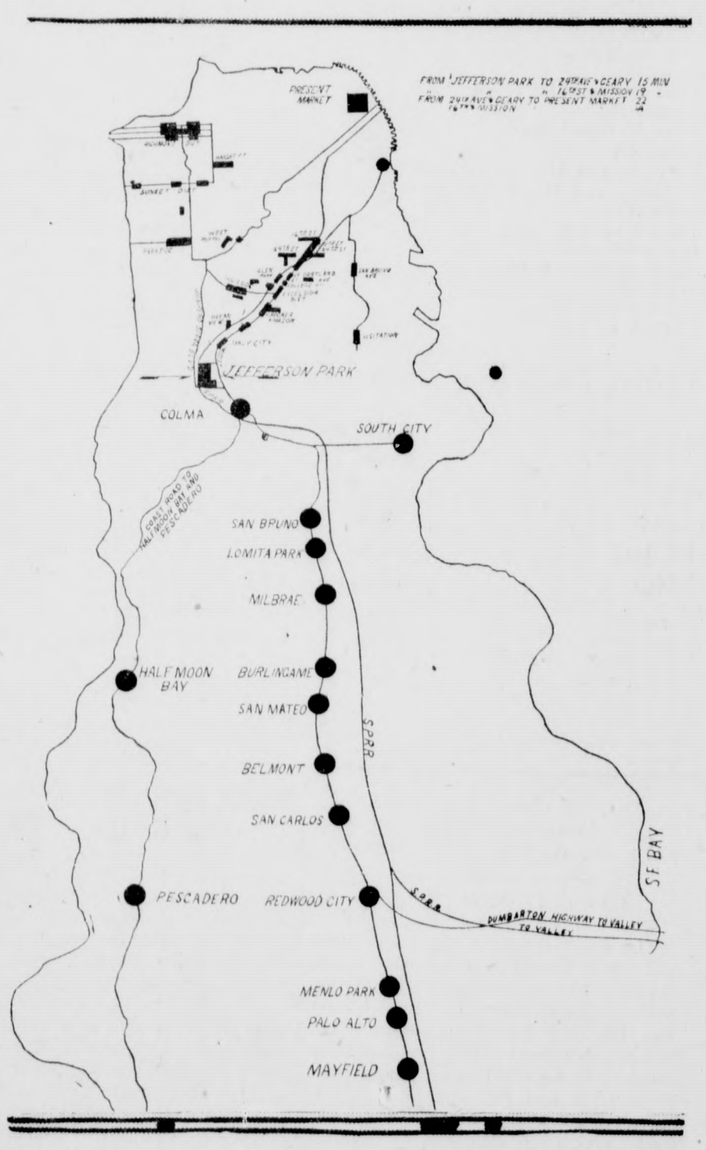
In every detail the best ideas of produce and warehouse terminals in the East and in Los Angeles have been adopted or adapted to meet local conditions and needs.

An extra line of track will be provided by the railroad to avoid congestion and facilitate reshipments.



New Market to be Constructed in Units

(Cuts by courtesy San Francisco Call)



Public scales at convenient points will hasten the weighing of loaded vehicles and prevent delays now so frequent in other markets from that cause.

These plans have been presented to many of the wholesalers and also the retailers. They express the opinion that it is a very logical project and are lending their support to the completion of the enterprise, realizing that goods can be delivered at less cost to this point.

This market would be only a branch of the present wholesale market down town and would do much to relieve the congestion there. History tells us that the banks twenty years ago had no branches in the outlying districts, but now they find them profitable and move out into these districts as they become thickly populated and meet the depositors. The same can be said of the show houses and department stores.

It is estimated that there are 310,000 people within a radius of six miles of this new market, and by including the peninsula towns the population would exceed 400,000 people.

Norton & Papale have under option 390,000 square feet of ground in the lower end of Jefferson Park, with plenty of spur tracks and sidings which will permit the handling of produce from the railroad cars direct to the market, thereby eliminating expensive extra cartage. The site also is situated ideally for highway hauling by truck, having the Junipero Serra boulevard, Coast highway and El Camino Real and connections with the Skyline boulevard and Bay Shore highway.

It is estimated that the first unit of buildings will cost approximately $150,000. This unit will have twenty-five stalls where the retal dealer will be able to buy a complete line of foodstuffs. It is anticipated that actual construction will start within ninety days.

By checking the running time by auto from the new site at Colma we find that it takes 15 minutes to get to Twenty-fourth avenue and Geary street over the Junipero Serra boulevard and Nineteenth avenue; 12 minutes to Sunset, 7 minutes to Parkside, 5 minutes to Ingleside, 7 minutes to the Excelsior district, 12 minutes to Twenty-ninth and Mission, 15 minutes to Twenty-second and Mission, and 18 minutes to Sixteenth and Mission. All fruit and vegetable dealers who are in the business on the peninsula south of Colma at the present time have a 19 mile round trip from Colma to the present market and back to Colma, which will be eliminated upon the completion of this new market. This also applies to the vegetable growers of Colma and points south.

The completion of the Dumbarton auto bridge makes it possible for growers from Newark, Niles, Irvington, Hayward, Alviso, Livermore, Tracy, Stockton and other points in San Joaquin valley to deliver their product at this new point in less time and at less cost.

The area wherein is located practically all of the wholesale produce and poultry markets in San Francisco, although in proximity to the downtown markets and hotels, is not a favorable one for the stores in the outlying residential districts and for markets in peninsula towns, all of which come daily to San Francisco's markets for their merchandise.

Once they arrive there they are handicapped to a great extent by the lack of suitable parking facilities, which is the chief fault with the present terminal. The long haul necessary for both the producer and the consumer is also one of the objectionable features of the present location, which has been the produce center for the past fifty years.

This lack of parking space and the objectionable long haul would be almost entirely done away with by the new terminal. In addition to a great area of parking space, facilitating deliveries, there are in the proposed new terminal, spur track facilities immediately adjoining, something which the present terminal now lacks.

These spur tracks and this area of parking space would bring buyers to the Colma market from points further south than Palo Alto, which is now the farthest southerly point buying locally.

According to figures compiled by Norton, the Colma terminal site would save a haul of approximately nineteen and a half miles for a buyer in Redwood City or any other point south of Colma who is forced to buy in San Francisco.

In addition, the Colma site would save considerable time for merchants in such residential tracts as Ingleside, Westwood Park, Crocker-Amazon tract, Richmond, Sunset, Parkside and Excelsior, besides those in the Mission district proper or south of Sixteenth street.

Proportionate times show that a merchant at Ocean and Excelsior avenues could reach the new market in seven minutes, whereas it takes him fully thirty minutes to reach the present wholesale center. San Mateo county buyers save two hours a daily trip.

These lowered costs apply also to the shippers in Santa Clara and San Joaquin valleys. Besides the saving of nineteen miles of cartage, which is considerable when all of the produce coming into San Francisco in a year

DRIVER DROWNED WHEN HIS MACHINE CRASHES INTO BAY

When the steering knuckle broke, a truck driven by Edward G. Rhodes, aged 60, went into the bay at Burlingame, and although he was taken from the water and regained consciousness long enough to dispel fear that others had been in the auto and were drowned, he died a short time later, a victim of submersion and exposure.

The accident occurred early Saturday night. As the machine ran off Pier 46, near Townsend street, a watchman at the pier and another man went to the rescue of Rhodes, who was struggling in the water, and pulled him out with a boat hook.

Shortly afterward a police boat grappled at the edge of the wharf for the truck and bodies which it was feared might have been draged down with the machine. Rhodes was unconscious and only revived long enough to give the information that he was alone in the truck. He died later at the Franklin hospital.

The unfortunate man had just finished wirk on a vessel and was driving along the embarcadero when a broken steering knuckle caused him to lose control of the truck.

Rhodes is survived by his wife, a daughter and a sister, all residents of Burlingame.

ROBBERS BREAK INTO LOCAL GAS STATION

Some time last Tuesday evening robbers entered the gas tsation at the corner of Hillcrest boulevard and Mission street. The glass on one side of the station was broken and the cash register emptied of its contents, about $5 in nickels, but a number of checks in the cash register were not taken. The robbery was first discovered when Peter Conci, the attendant at the gas station, arrived the following morning, when he found an old brush with a long handle, which he believes was used to break the glass. He immediately notified the Shell Company head office, and an investigation is being made, but up to the time of going to press no clue has been found other than the brush handle, which was found lying outside the broken window.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS VICTORS IN BASKETBALL CONTEST

The Camp Fire Girls held a meeting at Cairns Hall last Wednesday evening. At the conclusion of the business meeting a basketball game was played, the contest being between the girls' and boys' teams. The girls' team was composed of Jessie Hart and Dora White, forwards; Margaret Haas and Martha Johnston, centers; Eleanor Carle and Margaret Dubic, guards. The boys had to borrow some of the girls to complete their team, which was as follows: Warren Brown and Martin Johnston, forwards; Wilson Brown and Lillian Moore, centers; Wilbur Cairns and Florine Hicks, guards. The girls won by the score of 39 to 35. Maxine Mills acted as referee. Mr. and Mrs. Cairns and some other visitors and the rest of the Camp Fire Girls witnessed the game. Yells were led by Ethel Metcalf.

SURPRISE SHOWER

Last Saturday evening a number of friends surprised Mrs. George Rode at her home on Wellington avenue, and gave her a shower. Many dainty articles were presented to Mrs. Rode. The evening was most enjoyably spent in playing games and "listening in," after which a very dainty supper was served. Among those present were: Miss Irene E. Biebel, Genevieve Deeney, Anna Hirsch, Mae Sullivan, Frieda, Sophie and Loretta Bauman, Mrs. J. Hume, Mrs. C. Poket, Mrs. Jos. Fay, Mrs. L. Garibaldi, and Mrs. George Rode.

GAS STATION SUFFERS LOSS

The recent heavy rains have done considerable damage in and around Daly City. The gas station located at the corner of Theta avenue and Mission street suffered some loss by the heavy rain causing the foundation to cave in on one side, carrying the water and air pipes with the downfall of the rock foundation. But Jerry was soon on the job and had the water and air pipes connected and was able to carry on as usual.

Mrs. Bertha Saarinen, Mrs. Rose Parker and Mrs. Jeanne Wolfe, sisters of Mr. Edward Hall, a former resident of Daly City, have just received word of his death in Cincinnati, Ohio. His remains will be brought to California to rest in the Cypress Lawn Memorial Park, near his idolized mother, Mrs. William Hall, who died three months ago.

MILLION DOLLAR PRODUCE MARKET

is considered, the shippers also save hauling charges, which they are now forced to pay, not having the spur tracks, which are to be one of the features of the new terminal.

According to the plans, which have been drawn by a local construction engineer, the terminal would be built in units. Three of these units would be built immediately, covering approximately 65,000 square feet each. Work is expected to start within ninety days, and about six months would be necessary to complete the three units, which would cost approximately $1,000,000.

In these three units would be housed stalls with representatives of local firms dealing in fruits, vegetables, poultry, meats, groceries, butter, eggs and cheese. Definite announcement of when the building operation will start will be made within the next few weeks by Norton & Papale, who have opened offices in the Claus Spreckels building.

Local business men interviewed are enthusiastic regarding the need, value and practicality of the project. The whole community should be so, as it would mean the introduction of a high type of industrial life in our midst, as well as the expenditure of many hundreds of thousand dollars per year among our merchants.

As some one recently said: "The fellow who nowadays says it can't be done is always being interrupted by some other fellow's noise in doing it."

And the other fellow who remarks: "It's a good idea but it's ten years ahead of the times," usually spends most of his life bemoaning the fact that he didn't get behind the idea.

SYNOPSIS OF INSTRUCTION

Following is Synopsis of Instruction No. 4, by Father James Donohoe, to the children of St. Maximus church preparing for confirmation:

"Our Lord will come from heaven in great glory; round Him will be the Blessed Virgin, the angels, the Apostles. The good will be placed on His right, and the wicked on His left.

"The books will be opened. They will be the books of each man's conscience, and the records of his Guardian Angel.

"Everything will come to light. Secret sins will be made known, also our secret good works. All hypocrites and deceivers will be shown up. All our thoughts, words and actions well be judged, down to the smallest. We shall see at the Judgment everyone who has ever lived. Then many of the first will be last, and the last first. Many poor and ignorant, despised on earth, will be above the great and celebrated.

"At last our Lord will pronounce sentence. He will say to the just: 'Come ye blessed of My Father, possess ye the kingdom prepared for you.' (Matt. xxv. 34.) And to the wicked: 'Depart from Me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, which was prepared for the devil and his angels.' (Matt. xxv. 41.)

"Then the wicked will be driven down to hell to remain there forever with the devils; and the good, delivered from the wicked, will follow our Lord into heaven, to be happy and glorious forever.

"Some people are afraid to think of death. So when it comes they are unprepared for it. Often think of it. 'Remember thy last end and thou shalt never sin.' (Ecclus. vii. 40.)

"Remember that this world is not of much consequence, for it will all come to an end sooner or later; and very soon for us. Still we must do our very best in it in every way, because this is God's will and is part of our preparation for heaven.

"Remember that no act or thought will ever be lost. All will come up again at the judgment to be rewarded or punished.

"Many things go wrong now, but at the end there will be full justice for everyone."

PROPER SIGNALING IS ACT OF COURTESY

Highway courtesy in its simplest form provides one of the most effective means of facilitating the smoother flow of traffic, in the opinion of John R. Graham, member of the public safety committee of the California State Automobile Association.

The simplest form of highway courtesy, Graham declares, consists of giving precise and intelligible signals to indicate clearly every intended change of course while driving, whether right turn, left turn, complete turn or full stop.

"One of the fundamentals of traffic safety is the signal system devised so that one driver may apprise all others of his intentions," says Mr. Graham. "To reduce the number of accidents on streets and highways, it is essential that each driver pay 100 per cent attention to this fundamental.

"Inquiries conducted by the American Automobile Association, with which the California Automobile Association is affiliated, indicate that many drivers do not consider the giving of signals primarily as a mark of courtesy. They admit that while they try always to give them, self-preservation is their real motive. They were frank to confess that they never had considered the matter from the courtesy angle.

"Certainly the situation would be improved if signaling could be made totaly unselfish; if real courtesy could be the impulse behind it. This applies particularly to stopping. Abrupt, unsignalled stops have been the cause of innumerable traffic mishaps. The number could be greatly reduced if each driver were conscious of his responsibility to all other street users as well as to himself."

NORTHEN CALIFORNIA STEADILY GROWING

The gain in new consumers in the territory served by the Pacifc Gas and Electric Company indicates the substantial growth taking place in Northern California. The normal gain for 1926 was 50,469 consumers.

The company's system for the year shows a gain of 61,026 consumers, 29,108 electric; 30,834 gas; 1,083 water, and one steam. Of these 10,557 were taken on in the acquisition of systems operated by municipalities, or other companies, leaving a normal gain for the territory of 50,469 consumers. This gain would closely approximate a single service (gas or electric) to each dwelling reported by the census of 1920, taken in any one of the cities of Denver, Colo., Louisville, Ky., or Portland, Ore. The gain in consumers on the company's system for the past ten years amounts to 452,930. This is greater than the total number of consumers connected at the end of 1916, which was 421,794.

LARGEST AND OLDEST

The giant Sequoias are the largest and oldest living things in the world, says the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. The General Sherman tree, in the Sequoia National Park, California, is thought to be the largest living tree. It is 279.9 feet tall and 36.5 feet in diameter above the root swelling. The bark, which is about a foot thick, affords a measure of protection against insect attack. Trees of this species live to be 3,000 or more years old. They are found only in California at present, but in earlier times they grew in other regions as well.

"Well, I'm at the end of my rope," said the man throwing away the stub of a cheap cigar.

JUNE HOLDS RECORD AS BRIDAL MONTH

According to figures released from the office of County Clerk Elizabeth M. Kneese, June is still the bridal month in San Mateo county. But its prestige is not secure, for it is being closely pressed by the months of August, September and October. In 1926 licenses were issued to 145 couples during June. However, August, September and October all broke the 100 mark. The figures were 102, 114 and 101 for the three months. During 1925 June was the only month in which marriage licenses passed the 100 mark.

DAYLIGHT BANDITS CAPTURED AT MENLO

Three alleged members of a gang of daylight bandits have been arrested for the robbery of Andrew Matson of Menlo Park last Sunday. The men were captured by Constable Grill, and a watch taken from Matson was found in the possession of one of the prisoners.

Matson was walking along the railroad track on his way home when he was suddenly attacked by three men who pounded his head against the rails until he lost consciousness. The thugs searched his pockets, taking a large sum of money, a watch, a pair of glasses and several trinkets. Upon regaining consciousness, Matson reported the attack, resulting in the arrest of the three men.

Crusader Biggest Money Winner

Champion Three-Year-Old of 1926.

Crusader, the magnificent chestnut colt by Man O' War-Star Fancy, is the three-year-old champion of 1926.

His winnings for the year total $166,033. He is the property of Samuel D. Riddle, of Philadelphia, who bred him and who owns his sire. Other leading three-year-olds are E. R. Bradley's Boot to Boot, with $114,920 to his credit; Walter J. Salmon's Display, with $104,422, and the Chula Vista stable's Carlaris, with $100,375.

To Scapa Flow, owned by Walter M. Jeffords, by Man O' War-Florence Webber, goes the honor of champion of two-year-olds, according to many authorities, including the Jockey club, although his winnings, $81,405, do not equal those of William du Pont's Fair Star, with $88,960.

There are many who will claim that Joseph T. Widener's Osmand is a better juvenile than either, but there is no way to settle this question. Osmand won six races out of seven starts, and his stablemate won the race he lost. Osmand, being a gelding, was shut out from several of the larger stakes.

The leading stallion for the year is Man O' War, the superhorse, by Fair Play-Mahuba, carrying that illustrious record on the turf to the nursery, and in his third year as a sire sending to the races winners of a total of $358,612.

E. R. Bradley's North Star II is second among American sires, with $351,978. He is an older horse and has 42 offspring in racing, whereas Man O' War has only 25.

Therefore, in his third year as a sire, Man O' War has set not only an American, but a world record, in the earning power and quality of his offspring. It was in 1919 that this golden-hued colt swept across the racing world like a meteor, and as a three-year-old added to his renown.

Grid Team Boasted of "Three Blind Mice"

Notre Dame had its "Four Horsemen" and Penn its "Four Magicians," but John Carroll university, in Ohio, boasted during the last football season of its "Three Blind Mice."

Pat McDonnell, playing in the backfield, and Bill Herzog and Dick Quinn, who held down the two tackle positions, all were blind in the left eye.

Tex to Lose Title

Prediction by Tex Rickard (shown in the photo) that Sammy Mandell will be one of the four title-holders to be dethroned in 1927 has drawn a reply from the lightweight champion that "Rickard will lose his title of world's champion boxing promoter, too." Rickard forecast that Mickey Walker, middleweight, Pete Latzo, welterweight, and Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, bantamweight, also will yield their mantles.

Baseball in Ireland

Manager Bucky Harris, upon his return from Europe, where he went on his honeymoon, declared he believed Ireland had the best chance of taking to baseball. "I think the Irish will in time turn to baseball," said the bridegroom. "She is seeking games that will divorce her from English sports." When one runs an eye over the major league managers—McGraw, McCarthy, Mack, Moriarty, Howley, McInnis, Hendricks, Bush and Carrigan—it would seem that the Irish are pretty well in charge of the teams—over here.

MUCH MONEY IS SPENT ON GOLF

Yearly Tax One and Quarter Billion Dollars.

Golf is a game for the millions, but its upkeep runs into the billions, making it one of America's leading industries. Figures compiled, after a round-up of statistics covering nearly four weeks by Ray McCarthy, one of the country's foremost golf writers and promoters, reveal the astounding fact that golfers in the United States spend at least one and a quarter billion dollars every 12 months merely for the maintenance of their game.

This expenditure of $1,250,000,000 each year is confined to the actual cost of playing the game. The enormous total is spent only on dues, balls, clubs, clothes, caddy hire, luncheons and incidentals such as tips, ready tees, etc. It does not take in the property value of club executives, clerks and other help.

Conservative figures are presented by McCarthy, based on experience in playing the game and years of observation, and he finds that golf costs each player in the United States an average of $1,000 a year. McCarthy has projected more major matches on the links than any other man in the sport, and has directed the transcontinental tours of many prominent players, including Gene Sarazen, Jim Barnes and Jock Hutchison. He is at present sports director for the Florida East Coast system.

According to the tabulation compiled by McCarthy, there are about 1,250,000 golfers in this land today. There are 3,500 courses, and with the club membership averaging only 300, the total of players reaches 1,050,000. There are at least 200,000 playing the municipal links throughout the country.

The average yearly cost to the player, of $1,000, is apportioned as follows: Club dues, $100; balls, $100; clubs (replenishing), $30; clothes, $200; luncheons, $400; caddies, $100; incidentals, $70.

These are all conservative figures, based on a symposium among hundreds of golfers. In this total are not figured the expense of cleaning of clubs, functions, lessons, or purchasing of stock to join a club. The municipal golfer hasn't the club dues, of course, but his green fees will average $100 a year. Some of the players stated their golf cost them $2,000 a year. Others said it was around $800.

Further figuring brings the annual cost of golf in America up to $1,500,000,000. The extra $250,000,000 takes in hotel and travel expenses; cost of cigars and cigarettes consumed during golf rounds, and the drink bill—even ginger ale is costly.

The cost of golf is stupendous, and is a serious problem for the United States Golf association, which is making every effort to keep down the expenditures necessary in connection with the sport. The $1,000 estimate is really low, yet it does not curtail the number of new players that take up the game every year. It has taken about 36 years to develop a playing clientele of 1,250,000, but if the cost is reduced even slightly, it should not take more than five years to bring another million players into the fold.

About half a million dollars was involved in this golf pilgrimage, as follows: Railroad fares, $40,000; meals and other expenses on train rides, $10,000; hotel bills, $25,000; clothes for the trip, $100,000; equipment, $34,000; purchases during stay in St. Augustine, $150,000; salaries of members during absence from business, $150,000.

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

California's newest hydro-electric development, the Balch plant of the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation, will be completed early this month, marking the first unit in a contemplated $50,000,000 power project on the Kings river. From the date of preliminary surveys, about seven years of effort and over $5,000,000 have been expended in the construction of the plant, which will provide an additional 40,000 horsepower to meet the growing needs of the San Joaquin valley. The penstock, which is the harness for the water of the mountain stream, is the highest in the United States and is equipped with automatic controls making it the latest development in power plant construction.

Federal Judge Kerrigan, San Francisco took out of the hands of a jury and ordered non-suited an action in which the California and Hawaiian Sugar company sought damages of $270,000 from the Mason By-Products company of Sausalito, for alleged violation of contract on shipments of molasses from Hawaii. Judge Kerrigan, in upholding the motion of Attorney Theodore Roche for the defendant company, held that there was no actual contract between the parties. The sugar company alleged that the Mason company agreed to buy 30,000 tons of molasses at $9 a ton, and had repudiated the contract.

Incorporated for $150,000, two organizations plan the manufacture, sale and distribution of the only cold light of its kind ever discovered. Secretary of State Frnak C. Jordan heads both organizations, and each will be capitalized at $75,000. The cold light renders a glow in the dark, which makes the reading house numbers and finding of switch buttons easy during the night. The light is manufactured by a secret process, and is produced without use of regularly established glows. Headquarters of the two companies are to be located in the northern and southern part of the state.

The probability of construction of the Scott's Flat reservoir and dam being started during the present year was expressed at Grass Valley by Manager A. L. Wisker of the Nevada Irrigation district at a meeting of the directors of the district. The site, which is already owned by the district, is about six miles east of Nevada City and the plans call for a dam 200 feet in height. It is not planned to build to that height at the present time, but it was stated that an expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars would be necessary in connection with the first unit.

Declaring the existence of an "emergency" in which the whole of Kern county is involved, the board of supervisors made an appropriation of $1,500 to be used in exterminating mice in the dry basin of Beuna Vista lake. The appropriation was made after Whit C. Barber, county horticultural commissioner in charge of control work, had introduced S. E. Piper, rodent specialist of the United States biological survey. Piper reported to the supervisors on his two-day survey of the infestation.

All Stockton is rejoicing over the news of President Coolidge's signing of the rivers and harbors appropriation bill which authorizes the federal appropriation of $2,407,500 towards the consummation of the local deep-water project. Stockton has voted bonds to the amount of $3,000,000 for its share of the cost of bringing the sea to its waterfront, However, an appropriation by the state government of $419,999 will make it necessary for Stockton to expend but $2,581,000.

The Sacramento Northern Railway company has applied to the state railroad commission for authority to discontinue its service between Suisun and Vacaville over the Fairfield route. the railroad company stated that although it had operated five trains daily and six on Sunday over the Fairfield route, it carried but four passengers a trip, and was forced to operate at a loss, due to increasing transportation facilities between Suisun and Vacaville.

E. E. Holly, Suisun, was appointed chief deputy superintendent of banks under Will C. Wood. Definite annoucement was made by Holly, setting at rest rumors which have prevailed since Holly resigned his position as cashier and general manager of the First National Bank of Suisun, which position he has held for twenty-three years. Holly will maintain offices in San Francisco and he expects to assume his new duties in a few weeks.

The cornerstone of the new American Legion hall, Glendale, was laid with appropriate ceremonies, when members of the Glendale Legion Post members of the Legion auxiliary and legionnaires from various San Fernando valley and Los Angeles posts attended to witness the exercises.

Preliminary steps were taken recently by the city trustees of Nevada City, at a special session to begin the work of street improvement, improvement to the water system and the construction of a swimming pool, all of which were authorized by a bond election held last fall at which bonds in the sum of $72,000 were voted.

Work has started on the first unit of the Southern Pacific company's $187,000 freight house, automobile unloading track and switch yards, at Bakersfield, according to a contract signed with a Bakersfield firm calling for an expenditure of $41,000.

Approximately 100 new houses are to be built in the valley section of Burbank at once, according to reports.

The formal dedication of the new $100,000 St. Josephs Catholic church in East Bakersfield took place Sunday, January 23.

Marking an epoch in Coronado building, construction of a $1,000,000 apartment hotel was started February 1 on a site oposite the Hotel Del Coronado. The building is to be of Class A construction, six stories high and the total cost will be $1,135,000, including the site.

Details of Governor C. C. Young's budget plan for permanent improvements at the eight state curative institutions became known with compilation of figures showing that the new administration intends to devote $2,186,000 during the next two years to construction of new buildings and repair work deemed necessary at the various hospitals.

Improvements which will greatly increase the capacity of the packing plant of the David Hewes Orange and Lemon association at El Modena have been started. The work is being done jointly by the Southern Pacific company, owner of the building and the association, which has a long-time lease on the property. The cost is estimated at $25,000.

Southern California again assumes prominence as a fast-growing industrial center through the establishment of a new industry, the manufacture of airplanes, which will focus the attention of the aviation world upon Los Angeles. The International Aircraft Corporation will shortly begin production on a large number of planes to be shipped to different parts of the globe.

In the space of a few short years, southern California has forged to the front in the United States in an industry which, according to department of agriculture experts, is destined to become an important one in this country, the breeding of rabbits for fur and market purposes. Fifty per cent of the rabbit fur produced in the United States is bred in the Los Angeles district.

Officials of the Clover Valley Lumber company at Loyalton, announce that plans are already under way for rebuilding of the buildings destroyed by fire recently. The loss is estimated at $125,000 fully covered by insurance. Besides the box factory, the planning mill and two filled warehouses were burned. A hot box on a bandsaw in the box factory is believed to have started the blaze.

William C. Morrison, Marysville, head of the agricultural department of the Marysville Union High school, has secured a permit to build a residence and garage to cost in the neighborhood of $3,000. Students in the manual training department of the school are to take part in the construction of the buildings, to give them practical experience in carpentering and other lines. They will work under the contractor.

A phenominal growth of the California National Guard during the past three years is reflected in the biennial report of Adjutant General R. E. Mittlestaedt, which has just been placed in the hands of Governor C. C. Young. Since January 1, 1924, the strength of the organization has leaped from 3,200 men and officers to 5,600 at the present time, the maximum strength authorized by the United States War Department.

Every state in the Union is represented except Rhode Island, South Carolina Georgia, Utah and Wyoming.

NO ONE WANTS WAR

In the midst of all the turmoil in consequence of the administration's foreign policy with respect to Mexico, one note sounds clear and strong. The American people do not want war.

However the people of the United States may disagree with regard to this or that detail of foreign policy, the general demand that some peaceful settlement of our differences with Mexico must be found is too strong to be ignored.

There would be neither glory nor advantage in a resort to arms because of real or fancied grievances against our southern neighbor. While recent laws enacted by Mexico may appear somewhat drastic, it must be remembered that they only affect the internal affairs of that country, and do not menace either the lives or property of American citizens to an extent to justify armed interference on our part.

If conditions appear to warrant protests on the part of the United States, these should be made through diplomatic channels, with an appeal to arbitration if necessary. It is reported that both governments have expressed their acceptance of this principle. No one wants war, and there will be no war.

PRACTICAL FIRE PREVENTION

Lima, Ohio, had a fire loss of only 70 cents per capita during 1926, about one-seventh the average fire loss for the United States. Last year the loss was three times as heavy, but even then less than one-half the national average. Better inspection and fireman training is given as the reason for the reduction.

Oregon is the first state in the Union to standardize the fire-fighting equipment of all its cities, according to State Insurance Commissioner Moore. The ability of the fire departments of one city to go to the relief of others that are threatened by big fires is said to have cut fire losses enough to pay for the standardization of all the equipment and maintenance in a single year.

A fire is utter waste. It is futile to say that an old town will be better off for the conflagration that sweeps away its buildings. Houses and stocks of goods are the lives of men and women—yesterday's life stored up.

Insurance helps to equalize losses, but it is no excuse for fire ignorance or carelessness.

Daly City has an excellent fire department, and it is only necesary for our citizens to aid them in a sensible manner by endeavoring in every way to reduce the possibility of a fire, to keep this city safe from the ravages of fire.

Belgium's regular army is to be cut from 77,000 to 62,000 men.

BLUE AND GRAY REUNION

Congressman Edward Howard of Nebraska recently brought to the attention of the House of Representatives the proposal for a final joint reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic and the United Confederate Veterans, to be held in the City of Washington in 1928, as advocated by L. D. Richards, distinguished Union soldier of Fremont Nebraska, and others.

While the plan has not been approved by these two great national organizations, it has been widely discussed and may be brought before them for official consideration this year. In an editorial on the subject in the Fremont Tribune, the argument is made that each year the recurring reunions with their fatigue of travel and entertainment, is a severe strain on the remaining strength of the veterans, many of whose lives have been cut short thereby. Approving the suggestion of Mr. Richards, the Tribune said:

"He proposes, in brief, that a final grand reunion of all the veterans of the Civil war be arranged, and thus mark the final closing of the breach that once threatened the very existence of our nation; that the age-bowed hosts of the Union and the Confederacy march down historic Pennsylvania Avenue, this time joined in a harmony and patriotic brotherhood that will for all time symbolize the lasting unity of our people."

While there may be some dissenting opinion, to us it seems that this would be a wonderful demonstration of patriotism and brotherhood, which could not fail to make a lasting and beneficial impression upon the whole nation.

IDIOTIC RED TAPE

Among all the idiotic and exasperating red tape regulations devised by the government bureaucrats in Washington, those dealing with loans to war veterans must bear off the palm, we believe.

In order to negotiate a loan of 8 per cent of the face value of his adjusted service certificate, the veteran and the lending bank are required to execute numerous forms, affidavits and notifications.

To enumerate all of these requirements, regarded by many as senseless, would take the equivalent of two full newspaper columns of space. When it is understood that at the present time no loan which may be made exceeds $70 or 80, as an average, the stupidity of the required procedure is more plainly evident.

The regulations might well be entitled: "Regulations to effectually hamper veterans in securing loans provided by law."

Americans in Nicaraugua are probably better protected than those in Herrin.

A LAW WITH TEETH

The state of New York has apparently shown the way toward a checking of crime through the Baumes law, which became effective last July, and which provides among other things that a criminal convicted of felony for the fourth time must be given life imprisonment.

This provision of the law recently has been upheld by the State Supreme court. Other features of the law make it more difficult to secure paroles and pardons, and on the whole it is designed to remove the operation of justice from the hands of smooth criminal lawyers and judges susceptible to corrupt influences.

Even in the short time the law has been in effect, it is said to have reduced crime in the state to such a marked extent than other states contemplate the enactment of similar measures.

Crime in this country has assumed the proportions and character of a highly organized business, and as such it must be dealt with. The idea of reforming a man who deliberately enters upon a life of crime is utterly futile in practically every case. When one persists in a criminal career after three convictions for felonies, it is pretty safe to conclude that he is utterly unfit to be at large, therefore upon the fourth conviction, it is believed society is justified in getting rid of him for good, as the Baumes law provides.

THE PARTNERSHIP PLAN

"America's best way to overcome industrial strife is to 'harness labor and capital into an industrial democracy,'" says Thomas E. Mitten, able utilities director of Philadelphia. "This," he declares, "would make ours a strike-proof nation in one generation."

As a most important step in this direction, Mr. Mitten points to the growth of employe ownership of corporation securities, which is making rapid progress in many leading industries. The extension of this partnership between capital and labor tends to humanize the capitalistic system, and by stimulating greater production results in benefits, not only to capital and labor, but to the consumer as well.

In the same manner the growth of customer ownership is bringing about a better feeling between the utilities and the public, and in many cases we many now witness a three-cornered partnership in which capital, employes and customers all hold a share in ownership.

Forward-looking executives are fostering this partnership idea through every means at their command, and the wisdom of it is reflected in the greater freedom from industrial strife wherever the plan has been put into practice to any considerable extent, it is claimed.

Justice William Zoul of Cleveland declares that he has married 35,000 couples and has kissed 10,000 brides. He admits that kissing may be unhygienic and dangerous, but says he has never had a sick day. He also observes that "any man who lets the fear of disease prevent him from kissing a pretty woman isn't much of a man, anyway."

Mexico has prohibited the importation of rubber "pacifiers" for babies. The only pacifiers in favor down there are made of steel and lead.

Those ads describing the horrors of halitosis fairly make one hold his breath.

CANADIAN BOY'S GRIT

Admiration must be felt for the plucky Canadian lad, George Young, only 17 years old, who swam the channel between the California mainland and Catalina Island, being the only one of 103 contestants to finish the course. Of the entrants, twenty-two were women.

Young's time in crossing was 15 hours and 46 minutes. For his feat he received the prize of $25,000 which was offered by William Wrigley, Jr., the chewing gum man and owner of several baesball clubs, to the first person to swim the 22-mile channel.

Two women, Margaret C. Hauser of Long Beach, Cal., and Martha Stager, of Portland, Ore., swam about three hours longer than Young, but failed to finish. They were each given a consolation prize of $2,500 for their efforts.

The Canadian lad traveled from his home in Toronto, Canada, to California by motorcycle to enter the race and win honor in competition with some of the greatest swimmers in the world. He will now have the opportunity which comes to all outstanding stars of the athletic world to get into the movies and vaudeville. In fact, he already has contracts and is being flooded with requests for his services in the movies and on the stage.

Young has sent for his mother and declares he will buy a home in California and become a resident of the Golden State.

TAXING BACHELORS

Approval of Premier Mussolini's plan to tax bachelors has been given by the Italian Council of Ministers, the proceeds of the tax to go to the fund for indigent women and orphans. The number of bachelors who will be affected by the tax is estimated at 3,000,000, which includes all between the ages of 25 and 65.

From the age of 25 to 45, the tax increases with the age, while from 45 to 65 it gradually decreases.

The plan is not new, having been employed in ancient Rome, in Sparta, Sicily, France and possibly elsewhere in the past. From a practical standpoint, the greater income tax exemption granted to married men in the United States is a sort of indirect tax on bachelors.

Looking at the matter from an unbiased viewpoint, it appears that such a tax is justified. If the race is to be preserved, the women of the world must be provided for. In a certain sense, the man who goes through life as a bachelor is a slacker. If he is unwilling to face the responsibilities of marriage, he ought to pay for his immunity.

Last Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fricke entertained a number of friends at their beautiful new home in Crocker Terrace. Mrs. Fricke is the eldest daughter of Mrs. Helena O'Connor.

Members of the Colma Volunteer Fire Department are making extensive preparations for their second annual ball, which is to be held at Colombo Hall, on Saturday evening, February 19. It is expected to make this one of the most successful social affairs ever held in Colma.

The Colma Community Center will hold its regular whist Saturday at the Center hall. The Center whists are well known as delightful Colma reunions. They lack the hustle and rush of larger whists, but introduces a truly social and homelike atmosphere. Come tomorrow night and let us prove it to you.

A whist party and dance will be given in the Daly City Auditorium on Wednesday evening, February 9, by the drill team of El Carmelo Parlor No. 181, Native Daughters of the Golden West. Excellent dance music will help to make an enjoyable evening for all.

J. T. Casey & Son handled a Daly City trade Thursday when R. Mullen, contractor, exchanged a five room house on San Diego avenue for a three room house on Gambetta avenue, owned by F. Gedhof.

Car service of the Suburban No. 40 was upset Thursday when a car sank down several inches just opposite Millett's Camp after the roadbed had been washed away by the rain on Wednesday evening. Finally the service was established as far as the cemeteries.

The El Carmelo drill team held a special meeting Wednesday evening. On account of the illness of Mrs. B. W. Haubrich, of Colma, her daughter, Mrs. Sylvia Fischer, was forced to give up the direction of the drill team whist and dance, to be held next Wednesday in the Daly City Auditorium. Laura Figone has taken charge, with the team as a whole aiding her.

OF INTEREST TO COLMA

That Colma is on the road to improvement is evidenced by the interest its citizens are taking in the preliminary work of consolidating or incorporating. Not only Colma people are interested, but all of San Mateo county is complimenting the Colma people on their demand for a modern city. It is surprising to note the interest outsiders are showing. San Francisco people are remarking the natural advantages which Colma has and that we have done nothing at all to further these natural advantages until now.

Property owners, both resident and non-resident, are asking for sewers, water and streets. The majority of the property owners seem to favor the consolidation plan, which is the most practical and economical. The incorporation of Colma by itself might be more desirable, but the cost of this would be a great deal more and more than likely prohibitive.

The people of Colma are invited to attend a mass meeting on Monday, February 14, when these subjects will be discussed by anyone wishing to do so.

HOLY ANGELS CHURCH TO HAVE BIG BOOSTER WHIST

Big plans and preparations are being made for the booster whist party which will take place on Thursday evening, February 24. Under the excellent management of Mrs. M. Grady the committee in charge are working very hard for its success. The party will be held in Holy Angels Hall, San Pedro avenue, Colma, and each and every one in this vicinity are cordially invited to attend this huge affair. Don't forget the date, time and place, and be on hand, as you will certainly be repaid for your attendance at this party.

COLMA MAN HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Mario Tosi, aged 28, a marble worker whose home is in Colma, was seriously injured in an automobile accident which occurred last Sunday, he being severely cut about the throat and head, and for a time it was thought that his injuries might prove fatal.

The accident occurred early Sunday morning when an automobile driven by the Colma man crashed into the rear of another car, driven by R. Lorenzie, of South San Francisco. Lorenzie escaped injury, but Tosi was thrown through the windshield of his auto, being badly cut about the throat and head. He was taken to the South San Francisco hospital, where he was given medical attention, and at last reports was on the road to recovery. The crash occurred on Hillside boulevard, near the intersection of Chestnut street, South San Francisco.

P. T. A. NOTES

The Philosophy Center, which was located at Cairns' Hall, has been moved to 1270 Brunswick street, where it will be conducted as the home section of the Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande P. T. A., the members meeting to sew the first and third Wednesday of each month. At the same address will be held the regular monthly whist parties of this P. T. A., the next meeting of which is February 8.

Preparations being made for the next business meeting, February 15, cause us to anticipate a pleasant afternoon. Mrs. L. G. Owen will be our guest. There will be a program and refreshments. All ladies are most cordially invited to participate in any or all of the above activities.

Charles Slater, of 918 Hanover street, an employe of the Market Street Railway, was killed Monday, when a machine struck him as he was fixing a street car trolley on the line. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Tillie Slater, and two daughters, Madeline and Dorothy.

Profesor Seifriz of the University of Pennsylvania is experimenting to determine the elasticity of human tissue. An easier task, perhaps, than to determine the elasticity of the human conscience.

COLMA BANDIT IS RUN DOWN AFTER TWO WEEKS CHASE

Patrick Breen, one of the two men charged with having held up and robbed Mack Mischaud of $200 at Colma two weeks previous and then drove away in their victim's automobile, has been returned to San Mateo county for trial, having been brought back from Los Angeles by Sheriff T. C. McGovern, where Breen was arrested.

Mischaud met Breen and his companion in a San Francisco cigar store. He told them he was going to Los Angeles. The pair said they were going to the southern city also, and Mischaud offered them a lift, which they accepted.

On the outskirts of Colma one of the automobile's tires blew out. When Mischaud had repaired the tire the two men relieved him of his money and drove away with the automobile.

The robbery was reported to Constable S. A. Landini, who immediately got on the trail of the robbers.

Breen was located and arrested in Los Angeles. He claims that the automobile was abandoned in Long Beach, when he and his pal separated.

At the county jail at Redwood City Breen gave his age as 20 and his occupation as a truck driver. A charge of grand larceny was lodged against him in the court of Judge Ellis C. Johnson, of Daly City.

FIGURES SHOW FINE RECORD OF DISTRICT ATTORNEY

According to statistics on file in the county clerk's office, only on acquittal in forty-six criminal cases filed in the Superior Court at Redwood City is the record of District Attorney Franklin Swart for 1926. Ulbaldo Moroni, who killed a man at Colma, and who pleaded the unwritten law, was the only one to be acquitted of charges in the Superior Court. He was released by a jury.

Twenty-two convictions were secured by District Attorney Swart and Deputy District Attorney Edmund Scott. Fourteen other cases were dismissed, four men were granted probation, and one was remanded to the custody of the juvenile court.

Evidently it hasn't occurred to uplifters that pestering people doesn't make them happy.

Women, if They Would Be Really Influential, Must Take Politics More Seriously

By SARAH SCHUYLER BUTLER, New York Politician.

THE day of the feminist crusader in the United States is definitely over and the only way now for women to function fully in the political field is for them to start at the bottom and learn the game from the ward canvassing stage on up.

There are only two ways for a woman to get invited to important political conferences. One is for her to be so influential that she is necessary, which is unlikely, and the other is to inspire the leaders with confidence in her political judgment. Women need practical experience in the chores of ward and district work, and they should be judged only by results, as men are.

There is a great need for women in politics, and they are taking more interest every year. They do detail work, painstakingly, and they are capable of great loyalty.

Frequently they are likely to consider politics the main interest of life, and not as only one of the necessary elements of being a good citizen.

To devote the whole of one's life to politics is to warp one's point of view. Yet we find that if we don't keep our women workers busy between campaigns we lose them to other organizations, other drives, campaigns and movements, which will make use of their surplus enthusiasms.

One of the greatest lessons which women should learn is party loyalty. Women should realize that the two-party system, with all its faults, is the best instrument to date for democratic government.

Modern Science of Great Help in Bringing About Realization of God

By DR. HENRY VAN DYKE, Chicago.

Men of science are helping more than men of theology in bringing about a recognition of God in His universe and to stabilize our wabbly times. This age is afflicted with spiritual unrest, hysteria and general wabbliness, because we have learned a lot about the world but have not made a corresponding advance in how to use this knowledge without abusing it. It is a time of high velocity, vague direction and unreliable control, producing mental agitation and sometimes spiritual collapse.

The only cure is real religion. To be without God is to be without hope, and men of science are helping more than men of theology in bringing about a realization of God in His universe. Science is proving that everywhere is the reign of law, and you can't have that without a lawgiver.

Many are asking now about the future of the churches. The church must have its ups and downs, but it will not die if it does its duty, sticks to the task of making the world better, discerns the signs of the times and accepts the facts science has proved.

Many Lawyers Unfit Because Lacking in Information and Culture

By HERBERT FORDHAM, New York Law Official.

Four-fifths of the new lawyers are unfit to be lawyers for lack of information and culture. Most applicants have heard of Daniel Webster, though many know little about him. Some do not know where he lived or that he ever held an office. One applicant said he was a member of congress from Pennsylvania. Another that he was a lawyer from Kentucky. Another, that he was a leading statesman during the Revolution. Another, that he was prominent during the Civil war. Another, that he held no office, but took part in debates principally in the South. Another, that he was a southerner who favored a strict construction of the Constitution.

Few can name more than one or two members of the President's cabinet. One man named William Jennings Bryan, but placed him in the cabinet of Theodore Roosevelt. Another said that Mr. Hughes and Mr. Baker are now in the cabinet of President Coolidge and that Chief Justice Marshall served as chief justice until he was succeeded by William Howard Taft. Many know almost nothing of English or American literature.

Slang Enriches Tongue by Its Workableness and Its Vividness

By PROF. G. R. POTTER, University of California.

Slang is not the sign of a degeneration of the tongue. It is a development of expression which enriches rather than cheapens the language.

Shakespeare used slang words and phrases in his writings, and so did O. Henry and a number of other writers whose productions are now considered the classics of literature.

Language must change constantly to express the feelings of the people. Many colloquialisms and phrases are more workable and vivid than those grammatically sanctioned.

Grammar is not scientific and it is natural that it changes according to the times. Of course, many of the slang expressions of the day soon die, but the really worth while ones, those which best express a certain thought, live and become incorporated into the language.

Christianity Shown to Be Gaining, Even if Orthodoxy Is Palpably Lagging

By REV. CHARLES STELZE, New York.

While churchianity may have lost out with the people, Christianity has a stronger grip upon them than ever.

The results of a questionnaire sent out by a leading New York newspaper show that the church has no monopoly on religion in this country. Large numbers of people who are not members of the church and who never attend church services expressed sincere belief in the value of religion, accepting the fundamental doctrines which the church advocates.

It is quite apparent, however, that while the church may lay claim to about three-fourths of the population in our cities because of membership within the church, the church as a whole has lost its grip upon a very large percentage of its members.

For some reason, either its message or its program is inadequate. Added to this is the failure of the church to win that great mass of people who believe in religion but have never affiliated with any religious body.

Let's look at the facts. New York is the greatest mission field in [illegible]

Paris Dons Sport Garb at Resorts

Jumper Suit Still Favorite Mode; Wool Costume Must Be All White.

There are no decided innovations among the new sport clothes shown in the latest collections, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Times. The jumper suit is still the favored mode, particularly that version of it designed by Jean Patou. The lower part of the blouse of this kasha suit is bordered in a series of two-inch stripes of contrasting color, a beige suit having, for example, stripes of bois de rose, faded blue and dull yellow. Over this suit is worn a top-coat of tweed or other woolen material.

For tennis Patou advocates the costume he designed for Mlle. Lenglen, box-plaited white crepe de chine skirt with a sleeveless white jumper blouse, and, for the necessary touch of bright color, an orange sweater and matching bandeau for the hair.

Worth, who has been very slow to adopt the jumper suit at all, preferring the sport dress made in one piece, has compomised on a suit in which the jumper is really a sleeveless jacket with tie ends at the front beltline. In one suit of this type the skirt of plisse in navy serge was attached to a straight long-sleeved waist of red and beige figured foulard. Over this came the jumper jacket with open front, tied at the waistline with a bow lined in the red and beige foulard and a huge boutonniere of the same material.

This year the costume chosen by the Parisienne for the winter season in the Alps differs most obviously from that selected by her American sister in its lack of Indian decorative inspiration. The athletic American Snow Maiden is gay in colors and designs adapted from the garments of frontier days, but this winter more than ever the French woman must be delicately feminine in her attire even when about to tumble head-first off a bobsled into a snowbank. When she chooses a wool costume, she likes it to be all white, a fleecy jumper of brushed angora bordered possibly with a band of pale yellow. Knickers of the same material fit tightly over the calf of the leg under the heavy white wool golf hose, bordered also in yellow. Her enveloping scarf is of white brushed wool, as are her heavy gloves and stocking cap, presenting a camouflage against the snow as effective as the coat of the polar bear.

For the seeker after unusual color combinations Chantal offers a striking jumper suit with blouse of natural color kasha over a skirt of dull-green kasha, box-plaited in front and a curious puffed belt composed of two-inch-thick rolls.

Another clever design, this time in beige and brown, comes from Jane Regny. The skirt of this suit is of brown kasha and is plaited at either side, while the blouse is of beige kasha, the cleverness lying in an inverted V of brown that, beginning at the bottom of the blouse in front in line with the side plaits of the skirt, continues up the front of the jumper.

Smart Jersey Frock of Contrasting Materials

Two contrasting colors used diagonally give this smart jersey frock worn by Pauline Starke, the motion picture actress, unusual chic. Inverted plaits of the contrasting colored material are used on each side. A wide patent leather belt finishes the outfit, tan and green being the color combination of the dress.

Belts Are New

Having been neglected for so long, all belts, girdles and sashes have taken on a new significance and are featured on all frocks.

Shorter Coats Now Bid for Milady's Attention

Much interest is shown in shorter coats for spring. Youthful, and bearing the cachet of advance style, are models of velvet or velveteen either hip-length or below, these purposed for late winter wear with plaided and plaited skirts. From Paris comes this handsome model in the picture. The creator of this stunning midseason wrap trims bright blue velvet with chinchilla, disposing the fur in a very original bordering which suggests the now-so-stylish tuxedo revers at the front.

Attractive Fringes Are Smart to Trim Apparel

There is no smarter trimming for winter than fringe, which appears at all times of the day and in a wide divertisement of form. There are liliane fringes, attractive in black, white and gray on a white frock; there are cord fringes in brilliant hues which range from red to rose and from violet to mauve; there are rubber fringes, unusual, although they have already attained a limited popularity in Paris. And in response to the glittering demands of the mode du soir there are crystal bead fringes held in place by rows of strass which elevate them slightly.

The present fad for chains has extended even to fringes, a very original gown of lustrous black velvet with inserts of gold lame having a fringe of gold chains hung across the bateau neckline, extending down over the slightly bloused bodice to be confined under the draped belt of gold lame, whence it escapes to form a jingling overskirt.

Crocheted borders of silk threads are struggling to usurp the place of short-haired, light-colored furs as trimmings on sport coats and gowns destined for the Riviera.

Astrakhan One Smart Novelty of the Season

The most successful color combination among these new coats is that of any of the wine shades in velvet or kasha used with gray astrakhan. No matter how the fur may be applied this combination always results in an effective garment. Astrakhan is one of the smartest novelties of the new season, anyway—so smart in fact, that even an imitation of it looks well, as Jenny has been at some pains to prove. She has used an imitation black astrakhan as patchwork binding on a straight coat of cobalt blue velvet, the astrakhan binding extending nearly five inches into the body of the coat in claw points. This border binds the fronts of the coat, the hem and even outlines the collar. The lining is also of the imitation black astrakhan, black linings being the last word in the ultra-smart.

Flat flounces form chic trimming on these new coats, without destroying their slender lines. When Redfern uses them he flares the coat.

Velveteen Is Steadily Gaining in Prestige

Velveteen has been steadily gaining in prestige. Its vogue began last summer when at the French resorts many of the smartest women wore little jackets of bright-colored velveteen over sheer silk frocks.

This season one finds velveteen at the head of the list of important and smart fabrics. It is employed by the best known houses for coats of a distinctly formal aspect, and is particularly attractive in deep tones of red and green that are so much in evidence in the new fashions.

Simple rather tailored frocks for street wear are in many cases developed in velveteen, and in a recent showing of clothes for school and college girls' frocks of this type were conspicuously displayed. The jumper frock with a narrow belt and collar and cuffs of silk gains new interest if it is in one of the new and flattering colors.

"I now enjoy robust health and work all day at top speed without tiring. But I have not stopped taking Tanlac, for it is the one way to continued good health, to top strength and energy. Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

SCHOOL DAYS

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

DO IT TODAY!

FREQUENTLY in these days we hear it said among those who habitually dawdle and put off, that "tomorrow will do! Tomorrow I shall feel in a better mood, and then I will turn over a new leaf and show my employer what there is in me.

"I'm not in tune today. I lost a bit of sleep last night and am nervous and irritable. I must have my amusements, though, or I shall grow stale."

Unfortunately for these people who tarry and wait and lag, tomorrow never arrives. It is just as far off as it was a fortnight ago, just as elusive and deceptive.

The pernicious habit of dallying, of postponing until tomorrow while the world keeps calling for action today, is one of the most ruinous in the lives of the young.

We are all on speaking terms with today, but tomorrow is a stranger, famous for ingenuity in dangling hope before our sleepy eyes and tricking us year after year.

In the closet of good resolutions, where we sometimes secrete ourselves in order to turn the leaves of the past, and scan the hastily scribbled entries we have put upon them, we make this unwelcome discovery with a pang of regret.

To be perturbed and clouded at such times is natural, but if we continue to hang fire, to persist in disregarding today and still keep up our silly flirtation with tomorrow, we do these things at our peril.

We grow less resolute and in a little while we become abject creatures of misfortune.

It takes two to make your success, your employer and yourself.

And what you do, the manner and promptness in which you do it, is your greatest asset, and ought to be your chief concern.

If you regularly put off today's duties until tomorrow, keep disregarding today's blandishments and cheating yourself with the foolish idea that you will in some miraculous way "catch up" you are simply speeding the hour when your employer will abruptly dissolve partnership with you.

And the main side to this is that by waiting for tomorrow you are deliberately hastening your ultimate downfall and ruining your future prospects.

WHAT THE GRACIOUS HOSTESS SAYS:

By DELLA THOMPSON LUDES

INFORMAL DINNER MENU

THE informal dinner menu should consist of a soup, a meat or meat substitute, two vegetables, olives, pickles, or other relish. Grapefruit is often served instead of soup, especially in warm weather. The salad should be served separately, and it is a pretty custom to make it at the table after everything has been removed except the bread and butter plates and glasses. Making a salad may be a very artistic performance, and a hostess never appears to better advantage than when her capable hands are moving gracefully over a salad bowl, or among the cups and silver.

Suppose we are going to have a lettuce and tomato salad. The lettuce should have been prepared previously, and allowed to stand for some time in ice water. It has been shaken perfectly dry and brought to the table in a large bowl as handsome as possible.

The tomatoes should be of uniform size and not too large. They have been peeled by pouring boiling water over them and allowed to chill. The centers have been dug out. They are brought in on a glass plate, or one of old blue china. A bowl of mayonnaise and a plate of small pot cheese balls are placed before the hostess, together with the salad plates. With the salad fork and spoon she arranges a few lettuce leaves on a plate, places one tomato in the center, fixes a ball of the pot cheese in the excavation and pours mayonnaise over the top.

If the salad is one which requires a French dressing, such as lettuce or lettuce and cucumber salad, then a bowl is brought in which the dressing may be mixed. A pretty tray should hold the oil, salt, pepper, paprika, vinegar, and a dish of cracked ice. A spoon for mixing, either of wood or silver, is placed beside the tray.

Serving the dessert at the table is also a more pleasing custom for the informal dinner than bringing it in from the kitchen. A mold of pudding, ice cream, or mousse on a pretty platter, with a pile of dainty plates, a serving knife and spoon, is an attractive sight. A delicately browned pie, baked in a glass dish and placed before the hostess will whet a lagging appetite. Pie is not a dessert for the formal dinner, but is quite appropriate for the informal.

ALWAYS A HOME

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE door is narrow, the roof is low,
Around the border the brambles grow,
It's a poor little house—but remember though
It somehow is home to some one.
One little lamp like a candle-beam,
Shines down the path with a flickering gleam—
Ah, humble the humble house may seem,
But it always is home to some one.

A little room with a single chair
And a table here and a sofa there,
Yet one sweet thought makes it always fair—
It's somehow a home to some one.
And what of the castle on the hill?
What makes it beautiful? All that will
Is the thought the castle, the castle still,
Is simply a home to some one.

Oh, never smile at the humble place,
For God has given them each their grace,
Each house a look as he gave a face
Yes, each is a home to some one.
Oh, never think that the castle wall
Looks fair because of the gilt and all,
It's only a bed when the shadows fall,
It's only a home to some one.

For never a cot looks poor to me,
Nor a castle grand, though grand it be;
Whatever I see I only see
A spot that's a home to some one.
And I know the God who gives some one here
Some place than all of the rest more dear
Will have up yonder, when death is near,
Some sort of a home for some one.

Mother's Cook Book

I like to think when the day is through
Of each good deed that I stopped to do,
And there's a blessing for all the week
In some kind word that I ought to speak.
To ease a hurt and to wipe a tear
These are the virtues that bless the year,
And if I have lessened pain and strife
Then shall I be content with life.

GOOD EVERYDAY FOODS

FOR a pudding that is nice enough for any occasion and economical, too, try the following:

Graham Pudding.

Take one cupful each of graham flour, white flour, molasses, sweet milk, raisins, one egg and one teaspoonful of soda. Warm the molasses, add soda, mix the flours and add a pinch of salt. Gradually add the milk and the egg well beaten and lastly the floured raisins with such spices or flavors as one desires. Nuts, citron, lemon and orange peel are all good. Steam two hours in a buttered mold or small pail. Serve with:

Pudding Sauce.—Cream half a cupful of butter, add gradually one cupful of powdered sugar; when well blended add two beaten eggs and the juice of a lemon.

Coconut Cream Pie.

Take two and one-half cupfuls of milk, three-fourths cupful of sugar, two-thirds cupful of pastry flour, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, two eggs, one-half teaspoonful of orange extract, one cupful of coconut, and two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Prepare the custard, cook twenty minutes in a double boiler, adding the egg yolks two minutes before the twenty minutes are up. Pour into a baked pastry shell and sprinkle the coconut over the top. Place in the oven to brown lightly after covering with the beaten whites and sugar.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

COPYRIGHT BY WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION

SKYSCRAPER FAIRY

First I must tell you what the Skyscraper Fairy wore. She wore a dress of the loveliest shade of blue—that shade of blue that comes just before dawn and creeps over the city buildings and any hills that there may be in the distance.

It was made in points, too, points from her skirt, points from her shoulders and the sleeves went off in points.

On her head was a crown that was made of blue, too, only there was just the faintest suggestion of rose in its coloring and there were a few very, very faint, very little, very small stars that you could just see if you looked very closely.

Her home was on the top of the tallest skyscraper in a big city of skyscrapers. She lived there a great deal of the time and she called it her home—though of course she had her Fairyland home, too, and she used to go wandering and visiting a great deal of the time.

She used to go at dusk when the city is beginning to have soft shadows over it so that all its dirt and ugliness disappear, and the bright lights of the city and the faint lights from the stars and the deep, deep violet shadows take the place of the things that stand out so plainly in the daylight.

But it was not only because the city was so lovely at twilight time and just at sunset time, too, when the great big sun sank down behind the great big city, that the Skyscraper fairy loved it.

It was because then she used to go around to see her many little friends.

She went to visit the children. And she had so many friends among them.

They did not exactly know she was the one who came to see them, but they knew often at night how happy

they were when they looked out of their city windows and saw the mysterious, wonderful city lights, and heard the strange, muffled sounds of the city streets.

They did not know why such wonderful thoughts came to them then—thoughts they never could express—they did not know quite why they felt so happy and why their imaginations had such a good time without just exactly letting them into the secret.

For the Skyscraper fairy wanted to make them all have as interesting a time as the children who were visited by fairies everywhere else. So every city had its Skyscraper fairy and her workers. The first Skyscraper fairy of all had seen to that.

She knew that back of so many big apartment house buildings with their hundreds of windows and so many other huge big city places that looked so hard and cold on the outside, were plenty of wonderful children.

And she took them Fairyland thoughts.

At dusk, too, she used to go around and see them as they awoke and made them feel something of the same early morning freshness that they would have felt if they had lived in the country.

Oh, how the Skyscraper fairy knew them.

She knew how they used to go to the big parks in the afternoon to play, she knew how they used to go and visit the zoo.

She knew how they used to go and feed the pigeons and the ducks and the squirrels.

She knew how they used to draw with their pieces of chalk on the stone walks that were in some of the smaller parks where they went.

She used to watch them as they played—then, of course, in true Fairyland style she wore a cloak so dazzling that they could no more have looked at her than they could have looked at the sun.

She loved her city children and she knew how they, too, loved fairies and she loved the city with its big, hard buildings which softened in the afternoon when the sun set, and as the lights came out, and again in the morning when the blue colors rested over the whole, whole city of skyscrapers.

New Type

The youngster very proudly showed mother the picture she had been drawing. It was supposed to represent a house, surrounded by trees. Mother was critical. "Just look at that house," she said. "It's too big; it's as tall as the trees."

The youngster looked scornful. "O, this is an apartment house," she said —Springfield Union.

In Later Years of Life

Good Elimination is More Than Ever Important.

AS we grow older, there is apt to be a gradual slowing up of bodily functions. The kidneys are the blood filters. Proper function cleanses the blood stream thoroughly. Sluggish function is apt to permit some retention of uric acid and other poisons. This tends to make one tired, listless and achy—to have drowsy headaches and dizziness and perhaps a toxic backache. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is often shown by scanty or burning passages. Elderly people recommend Doan's Pills in this condition. This tested diuretic is endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

There is considerable sickness just now among the younger children, and especially in the primary grades. A number have been afflicted with the mumps, but just now sore throat is worrying many, and in some cases is said to be quite serious. Mrs. Emily Lohr, school nurse, is doing everything possible to help those on the sick list and to keep the others as well as possible. Every parent should give extra care to their children in order that they may be kept in a healthy condition, so that sickness may be warded off.

A large number of rooms in the schools of Jefferson district are full to the limit, and as it is very evident that more children are coming, they must be accomodated. About 1,500 are on the district rolls at present. Teachers being obliged to arrange such large classes are entitled to the sympathy of all broad-minded people. The condition is worst at the Crocker school. Several years ago when Crocker school was overflowing, the Pershing primary school was built. For several years it sufficed, but now both schools are crowded again.

Annual business licenses were due February 1, and those who have not paid will be taxed an extra dollar. If you have not payed your license tax, call at the office of City Marshal Doyle, at the City Hall, at once and attend to this matter.

Marshal Doyle warns everyone to keep all windows closed and locked. Prowlers have been causing trouble recently. If anyone acting suspicious is seen, call Randolph 55 immediately. You may save yourself and your neighbors several hundred dollars by foiling the petty thief.
